INNOXY consulting

Remote leadership development coaching programme

Innoxy coaching time - creating effective coaching partnerships

Innovate through coaching

Give it a go remotely

For leaders and high potentials who want to increase self knowledge, build deeper insight to develop skills and grow as a transformational leader

Learning and development areas - leadership coaching

- A range of psychological and integrated tools and models to increase and be aware of conscious and unconscious emotions
- MBTI Step I and II, TKI and FIRO-B for understanding self, others and group dynamics
- Realising change through constructing change patterns and programmes, leadership styles and presence, building personal resilience

Personal and organisational outcomes
What will I get out of it?

- Increased knowledge and self-awareness.
- Insights into how you express your behaviours and how your are right now
- Establish your personal model of effective change
- Clarify your own identity as a leader and become confident in your authenticity
- Develop strategies for building personal resilience for you and your people

What will my organisation get out of it?

- Improved leadership performance of leaders in groups and the organisation
- Increased capability and maturity in the organisation for challenging times
- Breadth of base for a coaching culture
- Encouraged and enhanced innovation and creativity
- Increased consciousness, well-being and effectiveness for a more sustainable organisation

This programme is a remote coaching programme and takes place using video-call or telephone conferencing. It consists of an introductory session and 6 further coaching sessions and final session for clarifying and setting onward progress.

The cost of the remote leadership development programme is £980.00 (inc VAT and online tools).

Executive Coach: Kristina Crabbe

Innoxy coaching works in partnership with leaders to help them meet their personal and organisational goals. Innoxy supports executives through change and transition linking passion and purpose.

To do this we use a range of useful advanced coaching skills and knowledge, working flexibly with clients' time and around their business needs. We appreciate just how much, the time for coaching and the right coaching relationship can make a profound difference, igniting and realising individual and organisational goals for commercial success. What makes us different is our real and practical approach to work through big picture issues.

We offer people in leadership positions the opportunity to discuss and develop openly and honestly any number of issues, thoughts, opinions and feelings within a safe and reflective space. An opportunity too to re-energise.

Innoxy team, group and organisational coaching takes the benefits of coaching on a step further in your organisation and works by supporting and shaping organisational change using integrated coaching approaches. Innoxy's consultancy focus is the design, development and implementation of organisational practices and procedures and the internal coaching and mentoring capability.

t: +44 (0)1491 825622 m: +44 (0)7714 291907 w: www.innoxyconsulting.co.uk e: info@innoxyconsulting.co.uk